Sea Level Rise Flood Connectivity Between Bay Area Jurisdictions: Sonoma County

Source: Inundation extents from BCDC’s Adapting to Rising Tides (2017)

For description of the purpose and methods used to create this map, go to https://sfbaycharg.org/our-work/jurisdiction-connectivity/

This flood connectivity is based on readily available information, and only intended for high-level regional planning. Actual flood management decision-making authority remains with local agencies and land owners.
Sea Level Rise (SLR) Flood Connectivity between Bay Area Jurisdictions

Sonoma County

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>100-yr (MHHW + 48&quot;)</th>
<th>100-yr + 3 ft SLR (MHHW + 84&quot;)</th>
<th>100-yr + 5 ft SLR (MHHW + 108&quot;)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Marin County (Uninc.)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sonoma County (Uninc.)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Petaluma</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sonoma County (Uninc.)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Napa County (Uninc.)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

For description of the purpose and methods used to create this table, go to https://sfbaycharg.org/our-work/jurisdiction-connectivity/

This flood connectivity is based on readily available information, and only intended for high-level regional planning. Actual flood management decision-making authority remains with local agencies and land owners.